

Alpha 1 Released

Technocrat Mon May 11, 2009 10:18 am

The first alpha release of the phpBB-Evolution CMS is now in the downloads.

This is an alpha release. This release is to allow people to try out this CMS and get used to it. It will also help us by allowing people to test it and give us feedback.

There are some incomplete areas that are still being worked on. You can see these areas by visiting viewing the tickets.

This is not intended to be used on a production site.

Upgrades will not be provided for alpha releases. They will be provided for Beta and RC releases.

Currently there is NOT an upgrade from phpBB v3.0.x to phpBB-Evolution. There will be one in a future release.

If you have any questions, problems, or suggestions please feel free to post them on the forums.
